Solactive wins Award for Best Index Provider at Structured Retail Products Europe Conference 2020 in London

30 January 2020

2020 barely started, but it already has been fruitful for Solactive: renowned industry voice Structured Retail Products awarded Solactive the honour of Best Index Provider at the media's 17th installment of its Structured Retail Products Europe Conference, the largest gathering of key professionals and decisionmakers of the structured products industry. The award recognizes Solactive's achievement and performance in the structured products sector.

„2019 was a fantastic year for Solactive, and the fact that we are handed such an award bears witness to the industry-wide recognition of our hard work and dedication,“ comments Steffen Scheuble, CEO of Solactive. “We surely don't take awards for granted; if anything, it inspires us to continue delivering only the best value for our clients and business partners. The most important game is always the following one.”

By receiving an award in 2020, Solactive secures winning a “Best” title for the second time in a row, with last year being honored as Best Smart Beta Index Provider for its achievement and innovation within the Smart Beta space.

The SRP awards are based on an industry-wide evaluation, including a comprehensive market survey. The final winners were determined by an independent panel of high-profile industry professionals. The experts evaluated shortlisted Index providers' achievements in innovation, price competitiveness, and the comprehension of clients' needs, choosing Solactive as the winner.
