BörseOnline Flüssiggas Index

DESCRIPTION

In times of energy scarcity, it becomes clear that natural gas is indispensable not only as an energy source in private households, but also for business and industry. A readily available alternative to natural gas from pipelines is liquefied natural gas (LNG). This raw material can be transported by ship or rail. Especially in the chemical industry, LNG is needed for the production of a wide variety of products. Experts estimate the investment requirement for liquefied natural gas infrastructure at a three-digit billion euro amount. These include the need for special transport vessels and containers, ports and transshipment points, as well as technologies for liquefying and regasifying the raw material.

The strategy index ""BÖRSE ONLINE Flüssiggas Index"" (Liquefied Petroleum Gas should benefit from this trend. This includes 20 values that are equally weighted at the beginning and accordingly have a share of five percent in the index. Once a year, the index is rebalanced, dividends are reinvested.
